

Partnership UCLA, a unit under UCLA Alumni Affairs, is excited to present our Spring 2017 Bruin Development Academy series. These Academies are designed for alumni to engage students in a professional development setting that would leave students better positioned for internships and employment. Additionally, our partnership with UCLA Extension allows Academy program participants the opportunity to earn Continuing Education Units free of charge. Earning Continuing Education Units as an undergrad is a great way to demonstrate to prospective employers your interest in the industry and your love for learning by taking action to invest in yourself and professional future.

The Bruin Development Academy is free of charge -- click here for the applications and dates.
